

Personal Development

Version 010916

SlaterConsult has more than 10 years of experience working with personal development in companies and educational institutions.

We know that it can be difficult to choose the right education, to work in project teams or simply to understand differences in the way colleagues behave in various situations.

Development is about understanding what motivates you and your colleagues or fellow students, how you respond to challenges, deadlines, working on your own or together with others in a team.

It is about recognizing a problem and agreeing on practical solutions that have to do with every day business, roles and responsibilities and performance.

Gaining insight is the first step to understanding. SlaterConsult enables you to gain insight into your own and other people's behavioral preferences.

SlaterConsult emphasizes a pragmatic approach to people development activities. We facilitate insights to individuals, students and professionals that can lead to change in work style, communication and collaboration.

e-interpersonal profile

SlaterConsult works with the estimate® e-interpersonal profile. A behavioral profile based on solid scientific evidence and probably the easiest to understand and act upon product of its kind on the market. We recommend the e-interpersonal for:

- Personal development
- Career navigation
- Development of collaboration and communication

- college graduates preparing for interviews
- boosting and fine-tuning resumes

What you will get

After completing your questionnaire, SlaterConsult will schedule a meeting with you (30 minutes) to:

Give you an understanding of your profile.

Pin point behavior preferences and how these can impact the choices you make.

You will receive a report at the end of the meeting.

Related profiles

- e-interpersonal teamprofile
- leadership profile

SlaterConsult

contact@slaterconsult.com

US Office: +1 407 350 0324 : European Office: +45 2076 0203 or +45 2724 7529

